6. Discussion of the Major Agenda Points

6.1 Appreciation of Alumni Support for AICTE IDEA Lab

A key agenda item was to acknowledge the support extended by alumni towards the establishment and development of the AICTE IDEA Lab at LBRCE. The meeting recognized that such alumni participation can strengthen innovation, interdisciplinary learning and hands-on project culture. Appreciation of these contributions also served to encourage continued alumni involvement in facilities that directly benefit student learning and innovation.

6.2 Career Development and Mentorship

The meeting emphasized the need for career development workshops through which experienced alumni can share practical knowledge on resume preparation, interview skills, career planning and professional expectations. Closely connected with this objective was the proposal to strengthen mentorship. Alumni can guide current students by sharing industry experience, higher-education perspectives and career lessons, thereby helping to bridge the gap between academic preparation and professional practice.

6.3 Contributions to the Alma Mater

The alumni community was encouraged to remain connected with LBRCE through academic, professional and developmental support. The agenda identified scholarships, infrastructure, research and innovation as areas where alumni participation can empower the next generation. The discussion framed alumni contribution broadly, including not only financial assistance but also expertise, professional connections, mentoring and opportunities for students.

6.4 Online Alumni Communication and Newsletter

The need for a centralized online platform for alumni communication was highlighted so that updates, event information and networking opportunities can reach alumni in a timely manner. The LBRCE Alumni Association Newsletter was also identified as an important medium for documenting alumni achievements, institutional developments, interactions and opportunities. Together, an online communication platform and a regular newsletter can help sustain engagement beyond annual alumni meetings.

6.5 Alumni-Student Collaboration and Recognition

The meeting placed special importance on direct collaboration between alumni and current students. Alumni interactions can support mentoring, technical guidance, internships, career awareness and professional networking. Recognition of outstanding alumni achievements was also included in the agenda. Celebrating alumni accomplishments provides visibility to the diverse career paths of LBRCE graduates and offers current students meaningful examples of professional growth.

7. Alumni Reflections and Interaction

From 10:30 AM onwards, the programme moved into the alumni reflections segment. This session provided alumni with an opportunity to reconnect with the institution, share memories and express views on strengthening alumni activities. The interactive nature of the session supported the central purpose of the meet: building an active alumni community that remains connected with the college and contributes knowledge, experience and support to future generations of students.
