Date / Duration : 29th August, 2025

Event Name: Monsoon Hygiene Awareness Program

Total no of Participants: 50 students

Objectives of the event:

- To educate students about the importance of hygiene during the monsoon season.
- To create awareness about preventing water-borne diseases such as dengue, malaria, and typhoid.
- To encourage students to maintain cleanliness in their surroundings.
- To promote healthy habits among school children.

Outcome of event : The program successfully created awareness among the students about maintaining hygiene during the monsoon season. The students actively participated and showed keen interest in learning healthy practices that can prevent diseases.

Description / Report on Event:

Activities Conducted

During the program, NSS volunteers and Prakruthi Club members interacted with the students and explained the importance of maintaining hygiene during the rainy season. Awareness was created about safe drinking water, proper waste disposal, and prevention of mosquito breeding.

Students were advised to:

- Wash hands regularly with soap.
- Avoid drinking contaminated water.
- Keep their surroundings clean.
- Prevent stagnant water accumulation around homes and schools.

The volunteers also engaged the students through discussions and demonstrations to help them understand the importance of hygiene and environmental cleanliness.

Conclusion

The Monsoon Hygiene Awareness Program was a meaningful initiative that helped educate young students about the importance of health and sanitation. Such outreach activities strengthen community awareness and encourage responsible environmental behavior among future generations.
